

LIBERAL ARTS

Drawing upon over 100 years of the Mount's excellence in teaching, the Liberal Arts major is an experience that challenges students to explore intellectual interests and talents with the support of community on campus and beyond. Faculty guide students as they mature into confident writers, speakers, and life-long learners prepared to embrace the diverse opportunities of 21st-century life, work, and service. "The Liberal Arts courses I took had a significant impact on me," says 2024 grad Bella McIntyre, who now teaches English. "The variety of Liberal Arts courses I took not only supported my teaching skills, but also advanced my critical thinking skills to analyze important issues in society and to learn how to be an effective global citizen."
